Topic: Data Requests

Request Date: March 10, 2021

Information Requested:

Vermont's IIS is being deluged with data requests, as we're sure others are. We provide aggregate data and generally report at the county level. More and more, we are getting requests from smaller and smaller towns or groups of towns requesting their data at that level, which, if we granted, would mean us invoking our small cell exclusion rules. (We asterisk any cell with six or fewer.)

We're interested in hearing from other states about the following questions:

- What do other states do about aggregate data requests?
- How low do you go in terms of releasing aggregate numbers?
- Are there limits imposed on how often a requester can ask for data?
- How much is too much?
- Do you charge for data requests, and if so, what do you charge?
- Any other guidance?
